

Baltimore Society Girl to Dine Dogs

Debutante Invites Them to Her Home, as the Guests of Her Pet.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 28.—Miss Georgiana Williams, one of the season's debutantes, is busy today preparing for the birthday party she is to give her pet dog tonight. Some of the guests will bring a dog to the party which is to be held at Miss Williams' home, No. 134 West Landon street. A few days ago Miss Williams remembered that her pet was due to have a birthday anniversary on Friday. To have a birthday party for the dog, she invited a number of her friends, with the stipulation that each guest must bring a dog.

MATTIE HACKETT CASE REOPENED

New Developments in the Famous Maine Murder Mystery of Seven Years Ago.

ACQUITTAL, Me., March 28.—Startling new evidence has been discovered in connection with the murder of Mattie Hackett, one of the most mysterious unsolved crimes in the annals of this State.

County Attorney Joseph Williamson will present the evidence to the Kennebec County Grand Jury that convenes next Tuesday. He believes he will be able to clear up this atrocious crime and arrest the criminal after seven years.

The evidence in the possession of the county attorney is to the effect that the pretty eighteen-year-old girl was murdered by a jealous woman. Bert Raymond, who formerly lived at Headfield, where the crime was committed, but who lives at present in a camp a few miles from Mechanic Falls, has been summoned before the grand jury as a witness. The murder of Mattie Hackett had all of the elements in it that would have appealed to the old French writers of fiction. The girl was the daughter of well-to-do and highly respectable farmers of the old New England type. Within sight of their comfortable home in Kint's Mill Summary.

Mattie Called Out of Home. On the evening of August 17, 1905, just after dusk, Mattie Hackett, who had been washing dishes in the kitchen of her home, was called out of the house. Later she was found unconscious at the roadside a short distance from the house.

The murder of the girl had thrown a gloom about her neck, tied it tightly and left her dying. In the darkness when the girl was found the road about her neck could not be seen. She was dead when the road was found.

It was a case of murder and nothing else. It was apparent. A tramp was arrested. He was also after spending some time in jail to accuse the authorities that he knew nothing of the crime.

Then other names were mentioned in connection with the murder. A story was told to the effect that Mrs. Elsie Holbe Raymond, the young wife of Bert Raymond, was jealous of Mattie Hackett.

Bert Raymond was employed at the Headfield Hotel at Headfield and lived within two miles of the hotel. The Hackett farm was about three miles away. It was the custom of Mattie Hackett and an older sister to have Raymond drive them out home once in a while when they returned from a trip.

Stories were told to the effect that on the night of the murder Bert Raymond asked his wife from home and drove about in search of her. But no evidence was ever found, so far as is known, to connect either Raymond or his wife directly with the crime.

Mrs. Raymond at the time of the murder was about to become a mother. In a long statement made by Mrs. Raymond to an American reporter after her husband had been acquitted the newspapers in connection with the murder, she declared emphatically that she was jealous of Mattie Hackett or that she knew anything about the crime.

All of the evidence that the local and special detectives could gather was presented to the Grand Jury when it was understood, but nothing came of it.

Just what the evidence is that the county attorney has discovered will be ascertained. It is believed to be of a character character, otherwise it is not believed he would present it to the grand jury after all these years.

The Raymonds have considerable property. E. A. Mory, of the firm of McCullough & Mory, of Lewiston, has been retained to represent the Raymonds. Mr. McCullough is in the Congress. Mory is also very prominent in political and legal circles.

CARNEGIE HELPS TO BUY ORGAN IN LYNN. Rev. D. Harold Hiker, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Episcopal Church at Lynn, has received a letter from James Bertram, private secretary to Andrew Carnegie, saying that the steel man will pay the cost of a $2,000 pipe organ for the church, providing the parishioners succeed in raising the other $1,000 before March 31, 1912.

A bill authorizing unconditional voters in examination papers was given its second reading in the House of Representatives today under the suspension of rules and sent over to the Senate for concurrent action.

The Committee on Harbors and Public Lands today favorably reported a resolution in the House requiring the directors of the port of Boston to recommend to the Legislature whether their jurisdiction on the north side of the harbor should be extended to East Point, Nahant.

The Committee on Education reported a bill to revise and modify the laws relative to school attendance and employment of minors.

Ex-Congressman William S. McKay of South Boston today asked the Committee on Ways and Means to report "a bill providing for a conference of representatives of the New England States to consider the conservation and development of the natural resources of those States. He said that after considering the proposition he decided that this year with its great political excitement was not a propitious time to call such a conference and that he feared, if it was called, the matter would be resolved by a committee with its hands tied.

In the House the Committee on Ways and Means reported in a new draft a bill to increase the salary of the judge of probate of Suffolk County in $7,000, of Middlesex County $4,000, of Essex County $3,000, of Norfolk County $5,000 and of $7,000 for the Middlesex County judge.

AVOID FIVE-DAY MARRIAGE LAW

Judge Loomis of Lynn helped Dan O'Neil break down the five-day marriage law today in that city by today, after City Clerk Atwell had laid out the provisions of the law. O'Neil and his wife, Mary, and John D. Hillier, who were the prospective bridegroom, were in the city today.

"Nothing doing until five days from now," exclaimed City Clerk Atwell when the prospective bridegroom applied for a license. "The new law, you know," he added, "will require you to wait five days before you can get married."

The property is taxed by the city on $180,000, of which $101,700 is on the 2,250 feet of land and $15,700 on the building. The sale was made through the office of C. W. Whitaker & Co.

denotes of a struggle, tearing the clothes from the body and doing all the other atrocious things that are a hindrance to a blind.

Mrs. James Moore, a very dear friend of the Mather family, shared when the details of the discovery were revealed. "I went to see him as I know him," she said, "a handsome, many little fellow, cheerful and full of jokes, spirits, a want and a laugh."

"That's Willie's dog," the mother told me. "That's Vio, his pet. Willie hardly ever went anywhere without Vio. They were constant companions." The dog moved restlessly about the room, searching in vain for his little master.

Pathetic Family Circle.

"Every day Willie and Vio would bring our dinners to us at the mill," said Carrie, the eldest girl. "My sisters and I were in the attic, and we always looked for Vio when Willie brought our dinner to us."

It was only a few moments afterward that the door again opened and the other sisters, "Patience" and "Ada," fresh clad, modest, pretty girls, returned from their work to join the family circle. A moment later, the father, William Mather, pale faced and grief-stricken, with the traces of last night's strain upon him, came in and stood with his back about him.

It is truly a remarkable family group; the mother, comely and straight and stamped with simple womanliness; the father, sturdy and patient in his sorrow; the simply dressed, fresh-faced pretty daughters, industrious and children, rosy and blue-eyed and wonderful.

They came from England just three years ago, the Mather family, to seek their fortunes in this famed land of America—and they have prospered in their various work. Mather himself is a doctor, and keeps a comfortable roof over his little brood and a cheery fireplace for the evening's respite from labor. The girls are employed.

All Eyes Are Dimmed.

Carrie and Martha—two "Patience" as they like to name her, work in the Lorraine mills; and Ada, in the Solway silk mill. The last and youngest member of the family believes heartily in work and the little home bears evidence of thrift and taste and order.

The living room where I found them was pleasant and neat and very snug. The floor was covered with a soft carpet of white and the walls were a rich, warm color. The windows showed the situation of the family.

But all eyes dimmed as the doors opened upon the last living member of the group and the unspoken thought showed itself in every restraining eye—"Willie!"

"He'll never be with us again!"

"I knew it, I was sure of it, even then. But that day we could not find him. Mrs. Mather said at length, 'Something told me that he was dead. I knew now, that I would never see my poor boy alive again.'"

And as a mother will, how he was now growing to be a man, little by little, proud as boys are when they are really "growing up."

Proud of Her Boy.

"He would throw out his chest and swell his shoulders and say, in a half broken Italian, imitating for mischief the Italian boys at school. 'See, my biggest chest—biggest chest!'"

And was proud of his little friend at school.

"He used to be an expert with the dumb bells and other things they used to school on. Oh, he was just getting to be a little man."

Her mother went suddenly to her heart, then she could bear—"Oh, it hurts," she said, "it hurts!"

Other neighbors came and went as the mother talked, each offering some word in the hope of clearing up the situation.

"I'll tell you," William Mather spoke up firmly and with conviction. "That boy of mine has been the victim of an atrocious crime. The father stood with his hands outstretched before him, his voice rising with emotion, 'an angel up out of a mine house, revealed, back then in England, I've seen them battered and bruised and mutilated, but I've never seen anything worse than the poor little body we found out there in the woods last night—the body of my boy!'"

Father Suspects Gang.

The scene told the theories advanced by neighbors.

"Don't be afraid," he said, in a trembling voice. "We're not one boy; it's got one man that killed him. It's a gang—it's a gang of rascals that got at him, and they murdered him like a dog."

Asked if he had any suspicion of who the gang might be, he said, "I don't know. I don't know who they are. I don't know who they are. I don't know who they are."

"I don't know who they are," I don't know who they are. I don't know who they are. I don't know who they are."

back and looked on proud and happy. Yes, and the watch! He was so proud of that watch, he had a way of pulling it impatiently out of his back pocket and telling others the time—he never refused to tell the time, you may imagine. Oh, he thought that watch was wonderful. It was his father's gift to him.

don't to school after having given them their dinner. I was going into town to pay the gas bill, so I had to leave the key with one of them. "Mrs. Willie, you keep the key till I come home," I said, and I tried it around his neck so he would be safe. I told him to be home early to let the other children in. Well, I sent to town and got back and found the two boys waiting in the vestibule of the cold and empty house. I ran across to Mr. Mather's room and found him lying on the floor, just as I found him nowhere."

STEEL WORKERS TELL OF INHUMAN CONDITIONS

Half the steel workers in America have a twelve-hour day and one-third of them work seven days a week, according to a report made to Charles H. Glueck, a Boston stockholder of the steel corporation, by John A. Finch, a special investigator. Mr. Glueck is trying to have the working conditions of the steel men improved. The report is the first made by Mr. Finch to 15,000 other shareholders of the steel corporations. Following are excerpts from Mr. Finch's report:

"If I were to sum up what the men who work in steel mills all over the United States have told me about the thing, I should quote their own expressive words: 'They have used us often, it's hell.' Do you see why?"

Half the steel workers in America have a regular twelve-hour day. A third of them actually engaged in manufacturing processes, the United States Bureau of Labor says, worked in 1910 not only twelve hours a day but seven days a week; thousands of ten-hour men also worked a seven-day week. Fifty thousand men throughout the country faced at intervals varying from two weeks to a month a solid stretch of work eighteen to twenty-four hours long. Ten-hour men are paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day, while twelve-hour men are paid as if they were doing a ten-hour day. The latter are overworked and overpaid, and the former are underworked and underpaid.

days, or seven days to eight, and the drawing out of a week shift to lengths that approach and occasionally even reach the limit of a whole week's work in other and more favored crafts.

Strain of a 12-Hour Day.

I have tried, in every steel town where I have been, to understand something of what it means to men, physically, in being on duty most disastrously long periods of time. I've talked with men and with foremen, superintendents and managers, and the messages have been the same: exhaustion everywhere. It sounds almost like a formula to me now. I've heard it so often. It runs about like this:

"The twelve-hour job is in the department where there is a good deal of waiting time. They are easy jobs. The men don't work twelve hours. Most of the time they are sitting down. In the open-works furnaces and the blast furnaces there is long periods of idleness, and when the gas is on night shift they sleep a good deal."

In Pittsburgh in 1907, I talked with men who had worked in regular breakdowns in steel mills thirty-six and forty-eight hours continuously, without rest or sleep. They were all men who had to do it again and again. They were all men who had been paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day. Yet most of the twelve-hour men did not sleep at all. They were all men who had been paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day. Yet most of the twelve-hour men did not sleep at all. They were all men who had been paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day. Yet most of the twelve-hour men did not sleep at all.

TONE UP THE STOMACH

How Most Cases of Indigestion May Be Cured.

"In the human body, when the blood becomes thin and impure, the different organs fail to do their work properly. One of the first to fail is the stomach and right here most sufferers from indigestion make a serious mistake. They imagine because their digestion is poor, that something is wrong with the stomach itself. A reduction in the amount of nourishment taken often makes matters worse.

The truth in such cases is that the stomach is failing to do its work well because it is not receiving a sufficient supply of pure, red blood. Such a sufferer should take a thorough treatment for the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills actually make new, red blood and give strength and tone to the entire system.

Mr. Albert J. Smith, whose address is R. F. D. No. 60, Rome, Pa., writes: 'My stomach became out of order because of irregular meal hours and rapid eating. My appetite was so poor that I did not care for food, and there was constantly a gnawing pain in my stomach. I got lost in nervousness and soon was completely run down. I couldn't sleep or eat well, although I craved it and my appetite. My complexion and the color of my eyes had a yellow, jaundiced glow. I grew so weak and shaky that I could hardly put one foot ahead of the other and my back was weak and sore.

I suffered for five years and for a long time I had a doctor but finally gave him up as I saw the woman's helping me. I then tried several medicines without benefit until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. A few boxes showed me that they were adapted to my trouble and they cured me. I work hard every day and have never been troubled with my stomach since.'

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, upon receipt of price, 60 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Relief Fails to Approach

A twelve-hour man, you would naturally think, would be relieved by a man on the other shift at the end of his twelve hours. But I have talked to the last year with twelve-hour men who have been obliged to work thirty-six and forty-eight hours continuously, without rest or sleep. They were all men who had to do it again and again. They were all men who had been paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day. Yet most of the twelve-hour men did not sleep at all. They were all men who had been paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day. Yet most of the twelve-hour men did not sleep at all.

In October, 1911, I visited the Carnegie steel mill at New Castle, Pa., and the superintendent showed me a lot of daily records of working hours and other things for the blooming mill. To one column of records he pointed and said: 'This is the record of the blooming mill. It shows that the men who work in the blooming mill have to work thirty-six and forty-eight hours continuously, without rest or sleep. They were all men who had to do it again and again. They were all men who had been paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day. Yet most of the twelve-hour men did not sleep at all. They were all men who had been paid as if they were doing a regular eight-hour day. Yet most of the twelve-hour men did not sleep at all.'

HUNT PROTECTION FUND IN MAINE LIQUOR CASE

BIDDEFORD, Me., March 25.—In preparing the case of High Sheriff Charles E. Sawyer for a hearing in the Kennebec district court tomorrow, on the charge of harboring a convict, the county attorney Asa A. Richardson, the county attorney, backed by the Maine Civil League and others, is reaching out not only for those alleged to have shared in the graft, but also for those who have regularly contributed to the rum pur-

The express wagons drive right up to broad daylight to the various "wide-open saloons," as the people of Riddelford are fond of calling them, deliver the barrels, have consigns sign and drive away at a top speed leaving a trail of liquid on. And these saloons are right on the most busy street.

Wide Open "Speak Easies."
Agents for brewers, and especially one for a Boston concern, make visits to the saloons every Monday night and take orders.

It is reported that one of these agents was directly responsible for the opening up of public saloons, and the present defiance of the prohibition law in Bladeford is the result.

Many of the political leaders in this section look upon the legislative probe with suspicion. They say there is danger of a "whitewash" with a strong Democratic majority in the legislature, but they are afraid to have their names attached to statements.

Everyone is undercover where discussion of the York county "rum syndicate" is concerned. It is contended that a Democratic legislator, like a Democratic credit the Democratic administration in the state, is only the product of partisan expression.

The thing clear even to the most uninitiated is that the York county wealth is stirred up over the promise of a fat expose due to the arrest of High.

WE PREPAY THE EXPRESS AND YOU GET CITY PRICES

The brand that we advertise to introduce our quality is exactly the same brand that we use to hold our over-the-counter business. CALLAHAN "A" is just as prominent in our window displays on Federal St. as it is in the advertisements we send out to carry "Callahan Quality" and "Callahan Service" to the most remote corners of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. We have no special brands and no special prices for our city customers. We want our long-distance customers to understand that when we pay express charges, as we do on all New England orders for 4 quarts or more of CALLAHAN "A", we do not take the express charges out of the quality of the goods. The man who buys CALLAHAN "A" whiskey pays over the counter every cent that you pay for it and a bargain just as you do. We sacrifice a part of our profit to get business from a distance and we rely on the quality of CALLAHAN "A" to produce other orders from you and from every other customer who tries this splendid, pure, palatable whiskey at our price of 4 full quarts for $2; 6 full quarts for $4.50, and 8 full quarts for $6. And here's another thing we wish to speak of while we think of it. If our shipment in 20 came back to us because of dissatisfaction the express charges would swamp us. Remember that we sell every shipment on a money-back guarantee. If you are not satisfied you can return the goods at our expense. We have made this offer for years. The reason we can do so is simply that the shipments don't come back. IT'S THE CUSTOMERS THAT COME BACK. That's why we can sell extra quality goods through the mail at store prices. Give CALLAHAN "A" a trial. If you go into a hotel bar or liquor store ask for CALLAHAN "A" and look for the bottle shape here. We say not only that it shall be a brilliant, clean, pure, palatable whiskey of extra fine quality, but we go further than that and guarantee that CALLAHAN "A" shall SATISFY you—that you will like it. We will ship your order without the slightest delay and send your money back just as promptly if you don't find our goods extra value. GIVES UP $11,342 FOR KILLING MAINE GUIDE

BROOKFIELD, Me., March 28.—An agreement by Dr. Charles D. Brooks of Brookfield, N. J., to pay $11,342 to the widow and child of a guide, Harold Light, whom he had shot and killed while on a hunting trip in the Maine woods last fall, has been accepted by the court. Dr. Brooks is the nephew of the criminal who killed him in the autumn. The court is to decide whether the guide was killed in the line of duty or not.

GANG TRIES TO BURN MAN ALIVE

The startling story of how a gang of hoodlums in the adjacent section of Four-chester attempted to burn a man alive, succeeding in slaying his wife only, is believed to have been perpetrated at the residence of a crowd that has been terrorizing that section for months.

Only for the interference of a spirited woman, who had been the victim of many burns and received their victim, the man would have been burned to death "at the stake," as they called it.

The victim of the attack was Joseph Leroy, a watchman on Franklin street, near Washington avenue. They were about thirty in the street. They had just entered the store of Timothy Sullivan, of No. 1420 Washington avenue, and had stolen a jar of candy-taking it right from the eyes of the storekeeper and making away with it.

Fire Excelsior in Barrel. After running from the store they sought refuge in the back of the store. They made a dash for it. It was dark and the watchman had placed some red lanterns as a danger signal about some new buildings that had been erected. The danger signal was snatched.

Grabbing the man the boys loaded him into an old tin barrel that contained a saw. His body was forced down into the barrel and then the barrel was turned upside down.

The imprisoned man, almost suffocated, was told there. Heavy stones were piled on top of the barrel. "Let's burn him at the stake," some one said.

Instantly a match was produced. The inflammable material was ignited and burned about the struggling victim. Like Indians on the warpath, the crowd danced about the barrel. They shouted and sang.

Woman Beats Ruffians. The unusual commotion attracted the attention of a woman. She heard the cries of a man. She heard the cries of a man. She heard the cries of a man.

The man was in a pitiful condition—born from fright than from real injury. His fingers had been smothered by the flames that reached him. The man told the story of the attack to the woman. The woman said the police on her head and to keep a lookout for the man the rest of the night.

Ruffian men have complained about the disorder and the police have determined that it shall be stopped.

BRADFORD HEADS
MEDICAL SCHOOL

Edward Hocking Bradford, Professor of Orthopedic Surgery in Harvard University, has been appointed as Dean of the Harvard Medical School, to take the place left vacant by the resignation of Dr. Henry A. Christian, which goes into effect next September.

The appointment is unique in this way. Dr. Bradford recently retired from the faculty of the Medical School, saying that he was getting too old to keep up the work of teaching. The corporation, however, thought differently, for though he was retired as a professor, he has been appointed to the post of the great Medical School.

In the second place Dr. Christian, who Dr. Bradford succeeded, was the younger member of the pair. He was born in 1854, the age of twenty-five. He was an attorney at law in the Massachusetts General Hospital, and was a member of the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Bradford, the newly appointed dean, is a member of the Harvard Medical School, and was a member of the Harvard Medical School. He was a member of the Harvard Medical School, and was a member of the Harvard Medical School.

BLIND MAN SEES AFTER DENTIST PULLS TWO TEETH

SANDUSKY, O., March 28.—After having been totally blind for the past seven months, Edward Kennedy, a prominent Parkersburg, Pa., man, saw today, the result of having two teeth extracted. Mr. Kennedy's condition of sight had been such like a fairy tale. Eye specialists had given up his case as hopeless, owing to the cause of his complaint, paralysis of the optic nerve. Suffering severely from toothache, he went to the Sandusky office. Two teeth which were severely decayed and which he had turned to leave the room, he heard his dentist say "I can see, I can see light. I can see you."

Baby Is Mother's Savings Bank Jailed as "Counterfeiter"

MRS. MALTA AND CHILD, HELD AS COUNTERFEITERS

Snatched today by American Photographer Redway.

6 MONTHS INFANT HELD WITH PARENTS AS IT CARRIED BAD COINS.

"Uncle Sam" now put in the novel position today of taking action against a two-months old baby in a counterfeiting case. The baby is Michael Malta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Malta of No. 82 Leyden street, East Boston.

The father and mother, only twenty-one and seventeen years old, respectively, were brought before United States Commissioner Hayes in the Federal building today. The baby came along too.

The father was charged with making and passing counterfeit money. The mother was accused of having it in her possession. And baby Malta, according to the story told by the East Boston police, actually had counterfeit money in his infantile possession, right in his little clutches.

It was not till the baby's clothing was searched in East Boston police station that all of the coins, alleged to be counterfeit, were found by the police.

The little family was taken from police headquarters in the Federal building to the police station today, where the baby was held in a room with a cot and a lamp. The mother was held in a room with a cot and a lamp. The father was held in a room with a cot and a lamp.

Catarrh Coughs

Colds, Croup
Keep Hyomei in the House and
Have Nothing to Fear—
Money Back Cure

Every one ought to have a little hard rubber HYOMEI inhaler and a bottle of HYOMEI (pronounced it High-o-mei).

Once you own an inhaler you can always buy a bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents.

Put a few drops into the inhaler and just breathe it. By its intelligent use you can in a few hours get wonderful relief from catarrh, coughs or colds. Breathe it regularly—it is guaranteed to entirely banish these troublesome diseases.

Remember, there isn't a particle of cocaine, opium or other habit-forming drug in HYOMEI. It is made chiefly of soothing, healing, antiseptic Eucalyptus.

A complete outfit, which includes inhaler and everything you need, costs but $1.00. Sold by pharmacists everywhere.

ITCHING RASH
LIKE RINGWORMS

On Face and Arm in Scaly Masses,
Pained and Burned. Got One Cake
Cuticura Soap and Cuticura
Ointment. Soon Entirely Well.

"115 Pleasant St., Gloucester, Mass.—
"About five years ago a rash began coming on my face and arms. It was itching and painful and used to trouble me very much. I scratched it. It would spread into circles like ringworms. My face and arms were in very bad shape and the skin was rough and red. I tried several remedies but they did no good. Then I got one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. I washed the sores and put the Cuticura Ointment on it and soon it was entirely well and I never came back." (Signed) Miss Viola Richardson, Nov. 18, 1911.

ONLY CUTICURA SOAP FOR BABY
Never Had a Sore and Does Not Chafe.

Dorinda Beach, Calif.—"I have always used Cuticura Soap and no other for my baby and he has never had a sore of any kind. He has not even chafed as most babies do. I feel that it is all owing to Cuticura Soap for it is fine and healthy, and when the months are a year in a baby's count. It makes my baby white to his eyes and never burns and soothes a sweet-faced baby with the white top of his head a solid mass of soft, downy hair and one of the mother's joys. I always recommend Cuticura, and I have times out of the many I use the powder she says 'Oh I am so glad you told me of Cuticura.' (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Bailey, Jan. 15, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free. Address 'Cuticura,' Dept. 7, Boston. Tender-faced baby should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

OPERA STARS IN SCOTTISH AIRS

By FREDERICK JOHN.

Theresa Temple rocked last night to the ambience of a vast audience of Scotchmen and Scotchwomen of every nationality.

There were fully 2,000 persons present, and it was a most unusual sight to see such vast numbers of Scotchmen and Scotchwomen as they did over the playing of Evelyn Rossini and Edward Lister.

The Scotchman was a most unusual sight to see in the audience of the Boston Opera House. Miss Rossini, an Australian of Scotch parentage, was heard for the first time in this kind of music. The song made a dozen of the most familiar Scotch songs with each party of immediate recognition and each beauty of the song was heard with a new interest.

It was a pleasure to the Scotchman to hear the Scotchman sing. The Scotchman was a most unusual sight to see in the audience of the Boston Opera House. Miss Rossini, an Australian of Scotch parentage, was heard for the first time in this kind of music.

Today and Tomorrow

Last Days Double Legal Stamp Week

It's a lucky stroke that gives you twice the usual number of Legal Stamps just at the time your purchases are twice as much as usual. Over five millions of dollars have been distributed to Legal Stamp collectors during the last eight years, as a discount on their cash payments.

Here's where you have a chance to get a share in a big way. Double Legal Stamps with every purchase will push the filling of your stamp book ahead at a rapid clip—and if you should get it filled before Easter, that would mean an extra $2.50 worth of merchandise, free—or $2.00 in cash.

To Appear Well, You Must Choose Well

You Can't Make a Mistake in Kuppenheimer Clothes

Not all men appreciate that the difference between a good suit and an ordinary one is not alone a matter of appearance, but of workmanship, fabric and method of selling.

The House of Kuppenheimer builds clothes that look better in the store and better in the "try on" than any others we know of, but further than that—when you come to wear them you'll find their good appearance is made permanent by honest, all wool, wear resisting fabrics and workmanship more thorough than most makers think necessary, resulting in garments as good to wear as they are to look at.

The only resemblance they bear to ordinary clothes is in the price, and even that is considered by us only as a deposit—not to be ours until the clothes have given you 100 cents' worth of service and satisfaction for every dollar you invested.

A vast stock of the new Spring Kuppenheimer Suits and Topcoats await your inspection here at

WHY DON'T YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES AT GALE & KENT'S?

Melvin Williams is asking
In asking the above question, I have in mind the man who has been getting the right clothes for the money, he has been spending.
If you are one of the thousands of men who save good money, I let bad clothes, I want you to know Gale & Kent, the makers of 96 Court Street.
Be you are, you are in the money, by making the most of your money, by making the most of your money, by making the most of your money.
This is the 21st year at 96 Court Street, and the trade is still on the increase, everybody happy and contented.
They can make you a suit of clothes better in style, wear and workmanship than you ever had in your life.
Their prices are very moderate, ranging from $15 to $25 for suit or overcoat. The cloth and trimmings fix the price. All workmanship and fitting of the terms is the same—absolutely high grade in every particular.
You have been reading this advertising for years. You have almost made up your mind to let Gale & Kent make you a suit.
Don't hesitate any longer. Take a train and I have seen the whole lot. There isn't a concern in this city that holds its trade year in and year out the way Gale & Kent hold and satisfy their patrons.
I consider that the greatest test is business, and it it appeals to you, I want it to get you to make you first visit to 96 Court Street today or tomorrow.
Every suit or overcoat started today or tomorrow will be delivered for Easter if a requested.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S POLICY FOR CIVIL AND INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS IN BOSTON

- FIRST, a greater Boston Port.
- SECOND, the extension of the Grand Trunk Railroad and other railroads to Boston.
- THIRD, the establishment of new steamship lines in connection with this port.
- FOURTH, the encouragement of new business enterprises.
- FIFTH, a systematic plan for the development of Metropolitan Boston.
- SIXTH, the improvement of the streets and transportation facilities.
- SEVENTH, the promotion of education.
- NINTH, the unremitting improvement of the AMERICAN, so that it may the better serve its constituents—the great reading public.

Build Big Boston Fleet by Public Subscription—That's the Suggestion of a Waltham Business Man

Enthusiasm is flooding the State and streaming through all of New England over the awakening of Boston to its greater opportunity in a commercial way.

Now that the State is back of the development of the port, with $9,000,000 at hand to start the work, and more where that comes from, and definite steps have been taken to extend the Grand Trunk Railroad to this city, business men have begun to figure on just how these improvements will help them.

They agree that better railroad and dock facilities will multiply business activity and increase the prosperity, NOT ONLY OF BOSTON, but of OTHER CITIES of the State. With more railroads and steamships, cheaper freight rates would be assured.

But even of greater importance to the shipper, these added facilities would give more adequate service in the shipment of freight—something that New England business men demand.

The development of the harbor is under way with General Hugh Bancroft at the head of the Board of Directors of the Port. Supported by the strongest business organizations of Boston and other cities and by the Legislature of the State, the Grand Trunk Railroad, tapping the fertile country of the great Northwest, is perfecting its plans daily to extend its system to Boston.

New steamship lines will be needed. And a prominent manufacturer of Waltham, in a letter to the AMERICAN in which he endorses the policy of this newspaper for the "Civil and Industrial Progress of Boston," makes an interesting suggestion in connection with additional steamship service. He says:

"The establishment of new steamship lines in conjunction with the Port of Boston is as necessary as fuel is to fire. I have a suggestion to make in connection with this, which is, to raise a fund by popular subscription for the creation of a fleet of vessels to carry New England-made goods from Boston to our Pacific Coast through the Panama Canal, and to all the South American ports, bringing back direct to us products from their soils."

This suggestion is in the right spirit. Boston must have more steamship lines. This city and the rest of New England MUST GET IN CLOSER TOUCH WITH THE PACIFIC COAST AND SOUTH AMERICA. Those sections need our products and we need theirs. It is just such reciprocity as this that will help to solve the distressing problem of the present high cost of living.

The completion of the Panama Canal should boost New England business. It will open a new world, practically, for the output of this great manufacturing section of the United States. Boston should be ready to take advantage of its new opportunities and discerning business men will, without doubt, be prompt in doing so.

In the meantime what do the readers of the AMERICAN think of the suggestion of the Waltham manufacturer? It is valuable if it only gets the PEOPLE of New England to THINK about the development of the magnificent port of Boston and the necessity of increasing business activity in this city and throughout the whole of New England.

The development of this city and this section of the country is something in which every Bostonian and New Englander should have PRIDE. The PROFIT will come later.

The correspondent asks the AMERICAN proposes to help bring about the conditions desired. Here is one suggestion:

Let all the people get busy at once. See your member of the Legislature. Make certain that he votes in favor of bringing the Grand Trunk Railroad to Boston.

Do You Belong to the Lodge in Which a Smiling Face Is the Only Requirement?

It Originated in an Insane Asylum, but It Is an Effective Method of Telling Sad-Faced People to Brace Up

By FRANCES L. GARSDIDE

THERE has originated in one of the largest insane asylums in the country an organization so sane, so helpful, so beneficent and so wide-spread in its effect that the wonder is some one outside asylum walls didn't think of it first.

It knows no initiation ceremony, has no pass-word or regalia; there is no lodge room and no dues. Though the insurance is most valuable, since it insures happiness, there are no cash payments to meet.

This is all that is expected of a member. When he meets any one who is grouchy he smiles and asks, "Do you belong?"

If the grouchy one has heard of the order he is reminded that he is not living up to his unwritten commands, and a smile chased away his frown. He EXPOSES long, but for a moment he had forgotten, and in that one moment he perhaps had met a dozen people and left a vision of unhappiness with every one.

Since no utility can be confined to any limited space or people, this little method of reminding the sad-faced that they must brace up is working good outside asylum walls, where those who think they are sane show they are not sane by grouchy and gloomy.

The soul needs all the sunshine it can get, and every man who lets his mask fall and shows the unhappy spirit within him darkens just so much of the sky for all who see him.

He wrongs himself, and what is worse, he wrongs others. If such a man were compelled to hide his anger, resentment, hatred, malice, grief, envy and all that traits of brutal thought till he reached his mirror at night, and then with his face before him, gave those emotions full play, he would realize the magnitude of once on the health and spirits of every one he meets."

Hopeless Cases Cured by Teaching Them to Smile

By constantly reminding these unfortunate wanderers in the Land of Strange Visions that they must LOOK happy, they begin to feel happy, and cases that were considered hopeless have been cured.

The experiment has gone farther, going back into the causes that brought these unfortunate to such a hopeless condition. It is found that looking unhappy and feeling unhappy and being unhappy, usually without cause, was the path travelled to enter the asylum. That path must be retraced, picking up rejected happiness on the way.

In other words, they made themselves unhappy to get in; they must make themselves happy to get out.

Since no utility can be confined to any limited space or people, this little method of reminding the sad-faced that they must brace up is working good outside asylum walls, where those who think they are sane show they are not sane by grouchy and gloomy.

The soul needs all the sunshine it can get, and every man who lets his mask fall and shows the unhappy spirit within him darkens just so much of the sky for all who see him.

He wrongs himself, and what is worse, he wrongs others. If such a man were compelled to hide his anger, resentment, hatred, malice, grief, envy and all that traits of brutal thought till he reached his mirror at night, and then with his face before him, gave those emotions full play, he would realize the magnitude of the wrong he has done the world all day.

He sees before him a face the Indians, who, knowing little, know so much, would call "Sour Dough."

If there is any man who does not realize the utter waste and worthlessness described in these two words, let him ask his wife.

The "Sour Doughs" need some one to ask of them, "Do you belong?"

They should belong, but every time they let an unhappy expression come to their faces they show they are not eligible to the order.

Don't Ask, "Belong to What?"—Organization Is Nameless

Do you belong? A smile in reply to the question will prove that you do; a frown is an admission that you don't.

Don't ask, "Belong to what?" The organization is nameless. All that is needed for one to know is that he DOES belong, and is trying to merit the privilege of membership by keeping unhappiness out of his face.

APPROVES PLAN FOR EDITORS' ORGANIZATION

Editor AMERICAN: Being one of the numerous admirers of your valuable efforts, I beg to say that whenever I think judiciously cannot fail to realize the wholesome benefit which the nation would receive from an organization in this country of a powerful intellectual body of search, research, newspaper editors who will co-operate for the welfare, guidance and elevation of the reader.

The task of the editor who educates, and who, by wholesome stimulation, develops higher ideals in the mind of the average reader, is indeed to be considered the greatest and noblest on earth.

Therefore, a co-operation of thoughtful, earnest editors, united to promote better understanding and adjustment of differences among classes and races, will be like the rays of the sun, creating an atmosphere of awareness and happiness, through which business dealings will eventually reach a more equitable plane and perfect national organization.

Ignorance as a Cause of Divorce—AND—Failures That Are Due to Parents

By Dorothy Dix

A YOUNG woman, who comes from a rich and aristocratic prominent family, and whose husband is suing her for divorce, makes this pathetic plea for herself: "She says: 'Nobody ever taught me anything about duties, or responsibilities, or self-control. I had an allowance of $150 a month for pin money, and I spent it all and more. Nobody held me accountable for it. If I had been taught differently, if I had known even that one value of money I would have been able to gauge the values of other matters, and perhaps I wouldn't be sued and suing for a divorce today.'"

This hapless young creature, who has made havoc of her life before she is twenty-one, has probed through her own experience to the very heart of the divorce problem.

Learned sociologists and high-browed moralists puzzled, they wonder why marriage is a failure, and why there is so much divorce. This girl has answered the question. It is because parents don't train their children for marriage. They don't teach them anything about its trials, its difficulties, its hardships.

Parents Most Surprised When Children Come to Grief

They let an ignorant, untought, undisciplined boy and girl plunge into experience for which they are totally unprepared, and then when the young creatures come to grief, who so surprised as their parents. Yet they might as well be astonished at a man who had never seen salt water and knew nothing of navigation, running the Lusitania on the rocks if he attempted to pilot her across the Atlantic.

In the vast majority of cases it is the parents who are responsible for the unhappy marriage in the world. It is the parents who are the first aids to divorce because although they know that their children are practically certain to marry, they do nothing to fit them for it.

From the time a girl is born she is taught directly, or indirectly, to look forward to being married as the career most desirable for a woman. But her mother never teaches her that marriage is the hardest job on earth, the one beset with the most difficulties, the one that requires the most self-restraint and skill to fill worthily.

On the contrary, she is led to believe that it is a sort of fairyland, in which she will live on chocolate creams, and do nothing but listen to her husband chanting her praises. What marvel, then, when she bumps into the stern reality of matrimony and finds out that it means hard work and poverty, and a husband who is grouchy and unappreciative, that she lacks the strength to endure it?

Who ever hears of a mother teaching her daughter a sense of responsibility because some day that girl is going to marry, and the welfare of her husband and children will depend upon her appreciation of her duty to them and to the community?

Who ever hears of a mother teaching her daughter to use money wisely because some day the girl will be married and her husband's prosperity will depend upon her thrift and economy?

Who ever hears of a mother teaching her daughter tact and diplomacy, because some day the girl will marry and she will need the finesse of a Tallyrand in petticoats to handle a husband and get along with him in peace?

Most Girls Are Totally Unprepared for Matrimony

Who ever hears of a mother saying to her daughter: "My dear, you must learn to control your temper and your tongue, because some day you will be married, and your happiness and your family will depend upon your ability to bite back the angry words, and return a soft answer under provocation that would vex a saint?"

Is it not true that the average girl who marries has never had the handling of any money; that she has been petted and indulged and spoiled; that she has been taught that the most important things on earth are clothes and dressing herself up, and that everybody and everything must submit to her pleasure? Isn't it true that the majority of girls marry without even having been taught the elements of house-keeping, or how to make a comfortable home?

And as for boys, isn't it true that they are taught to be good husbands? Isn't it true that a boy is raised up with as little idea of his responsibilities in marriage as if marriage was something that was as unlikely to happen to him as being struck by lightning?

Do you ever hear of a father teaching his son that he must be gentle and tender to women, because some time he will marry and his wife's happiness will depend on his attitude toward her?

Do you ever hear of a father teaching his son that it is a terrible responsibility for a man to separate a girl from her home and family, and to take her life into his hands, and that before a man does that he should be very sure that he can make good for her for all that she gives up for him?

Do you ever hear a father tell his son what a cowardly and despicable cad a man is who abuses his wife, and swears at her because she is too weak to knock him down for the things he says to her?
